CIRCUIT SYSTEM DEFENDED

THREE JUDGES

Lord Justice Roche and "Intolerable Burden"

LOCAL TRIALS

Need for Strengthening King's Bench Division

Lord Justice Roche, in Lord Justice Roche. In a memorandum on circuit Assizes placed before the Royal Commission on the Dispatch of Business at Common Law, a. Smith Square, London, yesierday, as id that he was convinced that although certain rearrangements might be possible in the case of a few circuit.

might be possible in the case of a few circuit towns, the criminal business in its enlirety and a large proportion of the civil business should be disposed of in its county of origin, "It is good for the administration of justice and the maintenance of law that King's Bench judges should wander much business, and present," he said "I venture to add that unless work dimitoishes, which seems impossible if jury train in civil matters become common again in civil matters become common again. The believe the burden of circuit will be from 4—and, indeed, is afready to many judges—lamoet intolerable."

No Time Wasted

Mr. Justice Attrison, responding said the criticism was made that the circuit system was a supposed waste of judicial time. He did not think there was very much time wasted, because if there was a day wested here and there, far more work was got out of the judge on circuit inan when he was in town, where he rose with unfailing regularity at four o'clock and seldom sai or Bentalys.

York Askinste the other day than the opening day of the circuit should be fixed and that aff civil work should be entered for trial ten days before that day, except for his last place on the circuit—in this case Lerds. Judges could then fix the days for ench town. c miolerable."

In means of glieviating it is not the of the membrandum to discuss, but lost obvious, ac any rate, are either that to increase the number of judges in further to extend the sending of lesioners.
